horseshow July 17-18 with a week of "wildwest" promotions July 13 - 18. Secrest issued the proclamation Friday in Austin as acting governor of Texas. A delegation of Cameron Chamber leaders accompanied Schiller in the visit with the governor.

Proclamation Boosts Plans For 'West Week'

5-Point Agenda

Board To Meet

The Cameron School Board tonight will consider a five-point agenda in a monthly meeting at Ben Milam School.

Board agenda matters include consideration of a bank depository for school funds for the next year. And the board will hear a decision from an Ad Hall citizens group on whether or not the community wishes to maintain the vacated Ad Hall school building as a community center.

Supt. Wiley Loughmiller said the agenda also included consideration of two faculty resignations and bids on football equipment.

Loughmiller said that basketball coach Bill Kruger reportedly had taken a post at San Marcos High School, according to a story in a San Marcos newspaper, but official notice has not been received.

And Clint Wiederkehr, Yoe High School shop instructor, was considering a position in Taft.

The board will consider resignations of teachers Mrs. Sara Wilkinson and Mrs. Nora Bennett.

Loughmiller said the board will also consider replacement of the boiler in Ada Henderson School which has been tired in need of replacement.

Board members met in a called meeting last week to consider problems concerning the school, but no action was reported.

If there are any real men in these parts, we'll soon see 'em sporting a beard of some style and a Western string tie under their chins, flipping wooden nickles in the air and striding down the street in the true Texan's outfit.

City slickers, traveling salesmen and clean-shaven types will be "branded" with badges exempting them from the rigors of Western life in the ornate, promotional, Stetson-wearing sagebrush center hereabouts.

It will all be part of Cameron's "Western Week" celebration July 13-18 promoting this city's fifth annual Saddle Club Horseshow scheduled two days, July 17-18.

Right here and now, I'm challenging all comers to a contest for growing the scraggiest, most unkempt set of chin whiskers in Milam County. I'm going to try for a goatee and will gladly match bristles with anyone wishing to outdo me. (They surely will. I'm like the man who went into the wilds of Central Australia to make his fortune in farming and who could barely raise stubble on his chin.)

100-100-100

As it was explained to me, it's going to cost those boys who don't: ONE—Have a beard growing after the contest starts in about a week, or.

TWO—Wear a badge (cost: $1) exempting them from a fine and possible confinement in the local jug.

It's going to cost anyway. There will be a 50-cent entry fee for beard growers. Our only consolation is possibly winning prize money in the category our beards take us.

100-100-100

Everybody "will be taking wooden nickles," as the saying goes, during the weeks preceding the Saddle Club's horseshow. They'll be put in circulation around Cameron and worth their 5 cents in any local business.

Practically everyone will be entered in the beard contest. If he's a traveling salesman, he either has a beard or he pays his "shaving permit" will cost $1 and he has to wear it as long as he is in town.

100-100-100

About the only thing the Cameron Chamber forgot in promoting this horseshow is a contest for the man who can outshoot the law.

In the final tally, the whole promotion and horseshow program should bring a lot of fun to a lot of people this July.

Much of Central Texas will be interested in the fun and frolic. Many Camerons will be among 'em, though the chinbrush may disguise them.

Boosting Milam Observance

DAR Promotes Flag Day

Observance of Flag Day Sunday is being promoted in Milam County by the Sarah McCalla chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Rockdale and Cameron.

Officials of the organization are urging that the United States flag be properly displayed wherever possible on Flag Day. Some general rules of flag etiquette are repeated by the DAR as follows:

"The flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset or on such hours specifically designated by a proper authority. It may be displayed at night upon patriotic occasions. It should be hoisted briskly, but should be lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNER — Miss Carole Boyls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boyls, Cameron, accepts a $50 scholarship check from Kiwanis Vice-President Coleman Duncum. Miss Boyls was salutatorian of the 1959 graduating class and was the recipient of the annual Cameron Kiwanis award. At left is her father. The presentation was made at a regular club luncheon.

Farm Bureau Plans '59 Queen Show

The Milam County Farm Bureau is planning an annual queen's contest and a talent show combination July 16 at the First Methodist Recreation Building, Cameron.

President O. G. Tumlinson said the queen contest will be open to any daughter or sister of a Farm Bureau member who is single and between the ages 18 and 22.

In the talent show, age qualifications range from 18 to 28 with family members of Farm Bureau families eligible.

Tumlinson said the county winner in each contest would participate in the district contests this fall and district winners will win all-expense trips to state convention competition in November.

All district queen winners will receive a wrist watch.

Decision to hold the annual contests was voted by Farm Bureau directors in a meeting last week. All entries must be in the county Farm Bureau office by 5 p.m. July 1. Additional information and details of the contest may be obtained by contacting Miss Lenora Bickett, FB secretary, at the Farm Bureau County office, Cameron.

Winner of the Texas Farm Bureau queen contest will be allowed $500 expenses to the American Farm Bureau Federation national convention in December.

"This is the first year we have boosted the talent contest for winners to enter state and district competition," Tumlinson said. "We hope a good number of contestants enter."

Mr. Salach, a painter, died at his home in Beaumont of a heart attack. He was born November 30, 1901 in Meeks and was a member and deacon of the Second Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Louise Salach; 2 sisters, Miss Lillian Salach and Mrs. B. W. Miller, both of Fort Worth.

When the flag is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, it should be cast aside or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the national colors. It should be destroyed as a whole, privately, preferably by burning or in some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect due the emblem representing our country."

Cameron Citing 2-Day Horseshow With Big Program

A governor's declaration of Western Week in Cameron July 13-18 has kicked off extensive plans to promote the fifth annual Cameron Saddle Club Horseshow.

Acting Gov. Jarrard Secrest, Temple, proclaimed Western Week Friday during his one-day tenure as acting governor.

Cameron Chamber officials are joining with the Cameron Saddle Club in boosting the annual quarter-horse and riding event which has attracted national interest for caliber of competition.

Chamber president Milton Schiller and Chamber Manager Richard Moseley headed a delegation of Cameron representatives that presented Secrest with a western hat Friday at the Capitol Building.

Issues Proclamation Secrest, state senator for Milam Bell McLennan Counties, issued the proclamation boosting the annual Cameron horseshow.

Meanwhile, Chamber directors in Cameron voted Monday to promote Western Week July 13-18 and the horseshow July 17-18 with beard growing contests, trade promotions, circulation of "wooden nickles", wearing of western clothing and other programs to direct interest to Cameron's Western Week and two-day horseshow.

Officials of the Saddle Club and the Chamber trade development committee met last week to outline a program for Western Week, first promotion of its kind in recent Milam County history, Moseley said.

Outstanding Horseshow The horseshow has developed into one of the outstanding quarter-horse and show horse competitions in the Southwest, Saddle Club spokesmen said. Last year, judges rated competition in the show comparable to major shows in Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Promotion plans include: wooden nickles, boosting wearing of Western wear and ties, mystery window prizes, beardgrowing contests, shaving fines and wide publicity of the program.

A group of Cameron businessmen and their wives attended a banquet honoring Secrest as acting governor of Texas Friday night. About 500 people attended the banquet in Austin.

Final Rites Held Here For Bennie Salach, 58 Final rites were held for Bennie Salach, age 58, Thursday afternoon from the Marek-Burns Funeral Chapel at 2 p.m. Rev. D. C. James of the First Presbyterian Church officiated with burial in North Elm Cemetery.

Mr. Salach, a painter, died at his home in Beaumont of a heart attack. He was born November 30, 1901 in Meeks and was a member and deacon of the Second Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Louise Salach; 2 sisters, Miss Lillian Salach and Mrs. B. W. Miller, both of Fort Worth.

WHEREAS, the 5th Annual Cameron Saddle Club Horse Show will be held in Cameron, Texas, on July 17-18, 1959; and

WHEREAS, this event is one of the outstanding activities in the State of Texas, drawing contestants from throughout the United States, as well as all parts of Texas; and

WHEREAS, the Annual Cameron Horse Show makes an outstanding contribution to the development and preservation of high quality, well bred, and expertly trained horses, one of Texas' finest assets; and

WHEREAS, the Cameron Chamber of Commerce will promote public interest in the 5th Annual Cameron Horse Show during the week of July 13-18, 1959, by encouraging citizens to wear western apparel, stores to feature western merchandise, and the staging of numerous western events of interest to the general public;

Cameron To Have Sweeper, Test Free Alcoa Aggregate

Cameron will have its first street sweeper in operation this week and has accepted an offer from Alcoa officials to use free slag aggregate in paving Cameron streets.

Plant Manager R. R. Sugg met with city officials and offered Cameron quantities of the slag aggregate material for paving purposes free of charge.

Mayor Bassel Wilson told The Herald that Alcoa would load the material for transportation to Cameron and the city could haul it.

Tests Underway Current tests in College Station and Waco are being conducted by contractors and engineers in the serviceability of the slag mixed with other paving materials.

In a special council meeting last week, councilmen voted unanimously to start a 90-day trial run of a used street sweeper valued at $4,500.

The sweeper was furnished by Dulaney Company, San Antonio equipment firm. The equipment was to be put into operation this week.

In other action, the council voted 3-2 to put meter patrol supervision under police department jurisdiction. Officials said that meter enforcement was ordered to be "fair and impartial with car owners putting their own money in the meters."

Meter supervision had been under the city secretary's jurisdiction after removal from police department control in 1957.

Use of Alcoa's slag aggregate would mean substantial savings in paving costs, according to Wilson.

A program of street paving using the much-tested lignite material would make Cameron a test city in modern street paving design.

Two weeks ago a test patch of the material was put down in Waco. Texas Transportation Institute engineers have been studying the material at Texas A&M for about a year, company officials said.

Offer To Haul Wilson said that Aubrey Slough, owner of Slough Construction Co., contractor working on N. Jackson and E. 10th Sts., has offered to haul some of the material for the city.

State highway department officials are planning to use some of the material in a farm-to-market road near the Alcoa plant in the near future.

Sugg asked that Cameron use the material in a manner test engineers advised, but placed no other limitation on use of the slag aggregate.

Officials To Hold Road Opening Fete

A public ribbon cutting ceremony is being planned during the next two weeks to open officially the widened US 77 in Cameron.

The Cameron Chamber good roads committee is planning to invite city officials from Temple, Rosebud, Hearne and other nearby cities for the public opening.

A barbecue honoring the district highway engineers and officials is being planned in conjunction with the opening.

Mayor Bassel Wilson and Chamber Manager Richard Moseley are in charge of arrangements of both programs.

Local board quotas for the July call already have been figured and were sent to the state's 137 local boards Monday.

TEXAS CHAMPIONS OF FREEDOM

PASTOR JOHN KILIAN

Leader and Teacher of Courageous People

Faith, wisdom and unrelenting service won for scholarly, gentle John Kilian a place second to none in the hearts of his people. They were the Wends, those Baltic Germans of Slavic descent, who abandoned their homeland for a new world wilderness in the cause of religious self-determination, in 1854, 558 Lutheran Wends, refusing to obey the Prussian decree of organic union with the Reformed church, asked John Kilian to become pastor and leader in their migration to Texas. On December 16th of that year they landed at Galveston and settled in present Lee County, naming their settlement Serbin. At Serbin, Kilian was more than pastor, he was squire, legal advisor, doctor, consultant and teacher. He established preaching stations at New Ulm and Roeder's Mill in Austin County, at Louis Settlement in Fayette County and in Bastrop. Through his efforts fraternal relations with the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri, Ohio, and of other states, were established, and today some 20 other congregations look upon St. Paul's Lutheran Church at Serbin as the mother church.

Texas will always honor the memory of a good and fearless man, John Kilian, champion of freedom.

Today Texans still demand and get their right to choose the way they want to live. In this vigorous and freedom-minded homeland, "Beer Belongs" and this is why the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly, in conjunction with brewers, wholesalers and retailers, to assure the sale of beer and ale under pleasant, orderly conditions. # CHEVY BESTS

Independent experts and official facts and figures prove Chevrolet's ahead of its field in seven big ways.

BEST BRAKES . . . In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NAS-CAR*, Chevy out-stopped both the other leading low-priced cars—and why not? Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. BEST TRADE-IN . . . Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.† Guide Book. You'll find that Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two." BEST STYLE . . . Popular Science magazine sums it up: "The fact is, in its price class the Chevy establishes a new high in daring styling . . ." It's the only car of the leading low-priced three that's unmistakably modern in every line. BEST ECONOMY . . . No doubt about this: two Chevrolet Sixes won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car. BEST ROOM . . . Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.† make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. BEST

ENGINE . . . Every motor magazine has given Chevy's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As Sports Cars Illustrated puts it: "Indeed, this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price." BEST RIDE . . . You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. But Motor Trend magazine expresses it this way: ". . . the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class."

Kings Are Fighting Fish

By Vern Sanford

This is the time of the year for kings! These fighting game fish of the Gulf of Mexico now are running in great numbers. You can fish them with anything you have.

If you want a lot of fun with a fish that will knock your lure 20 feet into the air and follow it, then try for kings.

You can catch them on a lead-head jig, fishing with a bass casting rod. Or you can troll behind a big boat with mullet, shrimp or most any kind of hardware.

Some fishermen use Japanese feathered jigs. Others like the Hooties, which are native to the area around Port Aransas.

Every man should make a good king trip a year. These scrappers forage from one end of the Texas coast to the other. So you can pretty much take your choice as to where you want to fish.

The king is a fighting fish that is pretty good eating, too. They come in varied sizes. Most will average out around five pounds. Believe me, that's five pounds of dynamite, with a quick fuse. The king is a fast reactor, and it doesn't stop until you hit it across the back of the head with a club the size of a base ball bat.

It's not the fish for a man with a weak heart. Especially so if you use light tackle. In fact, if manufacturers of light monofilament line could pass a law that everyone had to fish with a light line, they'd be running their factories day and night trying to supply the needs of king fishermen who lost line to these critters.

I don't care how much experience you've had, the king will pull something new on you. For instance, last summer some members of the Texas Game Fishing Club were fishing off Port Aransas. It was their annual tournament in which they caught kings, barreled them, and sent them to the Buckner Orphans Home in Dallas.

Tommy Reichman (wife of music man Joe) was fishing with a partner. They were running a neck and neck race for points. Suddenly Mrs. Reichman landed a big king. The boatman lifted it over the side of the boat and quickly bashed it across the head with the Pacificer (also known as the Priest).

Then he tossed the king overboard and put the stick in the ice box. She lost the point ... and the fish.

He was an experienced boatman, but he just got so excited he became thoroughly confused.

While fishing from these boats most of the fishermen use a 36-pound test line and a good Penn reel with a star drag. A steel wire leader is a must. They troll their lures, whether hardware or mullet, some 50 yards off the boat. When they hit a school of kings the boat stops and the fishermen start to work. It is no trick to catch a dozen or more of these big old fighting kings is a short time.

These boatmen who've been on the coast for years get about as excited as the novice.

Other fishermen like to work around some of the off-shore drilling rigs and in the vicinity of the three artificial reefs. They have found these spots exceptionally good for kings. Occasionally, they'll hook a ling, too.

If you plan to eat your king, then it is a good idea either to cut off its head or bleed it as soon as you've taken it. Be sure it is properly iced down.

They are best cleaned by filleting. Use a good sharp knife and slice down each side of the backbone. Then remove the beautiful white flesh. In this manner you can pack more of them in your ice chest.

They can be cooked like any other fish, but those who like kings think they are best cooked over open coals.

So if you want to have a real trip this year, try one for kings on the Texas Coast.

The Gulf is getting much more business today. Many people pull their own boat rigs to the coast now. Texas is very fortunate in having a great deal of excellent bay water where a 16-foot boat is very useful in getting into top fishing water.

Several passes have been cut through to permit a circulation of bay and gulf waters. These passes are helpful to fishermen. Perhaps the most important one right now is the Rollover Pass near the town of Gilchrist on High Island east of Galveston.

Then there is Cedar Bayou not too far from the town of Rockport. Farther south there is another pass proposed through Padre Island, about 12 miles south of Corpus Christi.

Still farther on down there is a cut, straight out into the Gulf from Port Mansfield. This was originally opened as a boat channel. However, it soon sanded up so that big boats could not go through. But it permits circulation of water, and that has been most helpful.

Artificial reefs along the Texas coast also have been beneficial to coastal fishermen. In three spots these reefs provide excellent fishing.

They are located near Freeport. Each has been built by dumping 600 old car bodies into the water at 60 feet deep. They have been laced together with oil field cable and weighted down to prevent their being rolled away by tide or wave action.

It was first proposed to build these reefs for snapper. However, it has developed that other fish like kings, Spanish mackerel, ling and sheepshead like them too.

One fisherman said that a snapper never would be caught at one of the artificial reefs. He has changed his mind, however, for your bait seldom has a chance to get to the bottom. Usually something else grabs it before it goes down 30 feet.

So if you really want some fishing, try our Texas coast. And right now is a good time to do it!

Broiler Prices Lower

Because of the expected continuation of the heavy supplies of broilers, prices for the remainder of 1959 will probably remain below those for the same months of last year, says Marshall Miller, associate extension poultry marketing specialist.

Cattle Grubs Controlled

Cattle grubs have been successfully controlled on non-lactating dairy cattle at the Tyler substation of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station with a systemic insecticide, Dow ET 57.

Weeds and Grass Can Be Reduced

COLLEGE STATION—Favorable moisture for cotton production also calls for a close look at mechanical and chemical weed and grass control practices to reduce or eliminate costly hand hoeing. Of the numerous weed control choices available, three are outstanding, says Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

These include the rotary hoe, lateral oiling of grass and weeds in young cotton and spot spraying with oils and fortified oils or spot pon in water.

The rotary hoe has been and still is the key weed control practice. In 1958, 44,496 rotary hoe equipped tractors were operated in 157 counties, resulting in a saving of over $13 million. The pull-behind or broadcast types proved the required high speeds. Rotary hoeing alone, not in combination with sweep cultivation, permits quicker after repeated rains, Elliott said.

If continued rains prevent getting into the field with the rotary hoe and cause heavy growth of annual grasses and weeds, lateral oiling or post emergence oiling with unfortified naphtha is an excellent way to get out of the grass for about $1.00 to $1.50 for the five gallons of oil needs per acre. This practice was carried out in 47 counties in 1958.

The naphtha is applied with parallel action oiling shoes at 15 to 25 pounds pressure, with 2 fan-type horizontal nozzles, staggered and placed 10 inches apart—one nozzle on each side of the row. Direct the spray pattern at the lower 1 to 1 1/2 inches of the cotton stem, below the leaves, advises Elliott. Natural wax on young cotton stalks shed the naphtha without injury to the cotton until bark roughens and cracks. Annual grasses up to 3 to 5 inches tall can be controlled, he said.

Spot-spraying established Johnsongrass is faster, easier and cheaper than hand hoeing and Johnsongrass can be eradicated in one year. Use the jet-gun sprayer. Apply the oils in small amounts to the stem of the grass at the ground line. Kero fortified with C-56, 1/2 gallons oil, does an excellent job, Elliott said.

Sodium dalapon in water is a systemic foliage spray and the leaves of the grass must be wet. Again the jet-gun sprayer is ideal

The Courage Of Truth...

The heel of Communist dogma and toe of materialist philosophy were shaken underfoot by the writer of "Dr. Zhivago", winner of the Nobel prize for literature in 1958.

It is a story of extraordinary honesty written in the most extraordinary circumstances. For its author is Russian poet B. Pasternak who in his book measured the hypocrisy of Communism and life itself while living in his native Russia. A copy of the manuscript was smuggled to Italy where it was first published.

Pasternak's novel stirred international propaganda crisis for Communist Russia and Khrushchev when the Nobel prize was tendered to Pasternak. Khrushchev demanded that Pasternak reject the prize money or face deportation. Pasternak complied, true to his ardent devotion to Russia as his homeland, not as a political domicile.

Zhivago, the central chord of Pasternak's theme, traces in almost idyllic prose the demise of Tsarist, bourgeois Russia in the terror of Bolshevik revolution. The idealistic doctor assumes a role of pacifist in the political bloodbath that pronounced group poverty the blind fate of the Russian people.

In his flight of suffering, Zhivago eulogizes the incredible damage to the human spirit of both vanquished upper classes and vanquishing peasant revolutionaries.

Pasternak seems to say there is no victor in the purge of truth when inequalities of Tsarism are abolished by injustices of bolshevism.

We find Zhivago uncertain in his condemnation of violence and seeking the final truth in God. And his universal condemnation of popular causes witnesses in Christ-like fervor for the inviolate right of the individual to remain free.

"Men who are not free," writes Pasternak, "idealize their bondage."

Thus he finds human conformity to mass society a bondage by choice. It appears he is saying: We (all people) may be incapable of improving our lot, so let us worship it.

Khrushchev's collectivist face was reddened. But Pasternak's book has the power to crimson the countenance of society everywhere.

We cannot believe his Nobel award was based only on the threat of political indictment. His is a classic exposition that indicts Man himself for purging one system for another at his own expense.

Pasternak's Zhivago dies and Communism reigns and Russian life continues. Man learns little from his folly and finds another clime, another cause to claim his energies. With the same courage Pasternak's novel embodies, he will somehow survive.

Works Out Some Unusual Notions On Monkey's Flight Into Space

Dear editor:

As a student of space, by which I mean I guess I've started off into it as much as anybody, I have seen interested in reading about those two monkeys that were sent 300 miles out into space and successfully brought down.

That is, what has interested me most is what a lot of people have imagined the monkeys' reactions were to the flight, and while a lot of words were written about the "press conference" the two animals held in Washington, nobody seems to have hit on what the monkeys' reaction probably was.

I can tell you. It was, and I will add it's also what the first space men will say too if they ever get out there and back: WE'RE SURE GLAD TO GET BACK HOME AGAIN.

I still say travel into space may be sort of like some men going off to war. At the time, it seemed like an exciting thing to do, they were sort of bored with life at home anyway, but after they'd been there a little while, home sounded like the most exciting place in the universe.

And as for the death of one of the space monkeys after it got back, I can explain that. Before it was sent up, it was put to sleep with an anesthetic so a small recording instrument could be placed under its skin, then when it got back, you know, it was given another anesthetic so the instrument could be removed.

Now here's the thing. Monkeys may not be as smart as people, although I'm not prepared to say this as I don't know as many monkeys as I do people, but that monkey wasn't so dumb and he thought, just as they started to give him that second anesthetic: the first time they did this to me, shortly afterwards I was put into a capsule and blasted 300 miles into space at 10,000 an hour.

The thought the second time around was too much for him and he died of shock.

Yours faithfully,
 J. A.

Session May End In Tax Stalemate

By Vera Sanford

AUSTIN — First called session of the 56th Legislature will end automatically June 16.

It would be hard to find anyone around the Capitol who would bet on the state's money problems being wrapped up by that date.

Sensors began their work on the tax bills sent them by the House with an air of deliberate calm. They even waited 48 hours before beginning hearings to give everybody time to ready his presentation. (This is the "tag" rule whereby if one senator "tags" a bill, it cannot be heard except with 48 hours notice.)

Main issue was a bill to raise new revenue for 1960-61 spending needs. Gov. Price Daniel appeared personally before the Senate State Affairs Committee in behalf of H. B. 7. This is the House-passed bill to tax natural gas, interstate corporation franchises, utilities, liquor, cigarettes, autos, etc.

Governor Daniel stoutly defended the bill on all counts, but said he would not "feel hurt" if the Senate wanted to make some changes.

Industry spokesmen and Chamber of commerce representatives told the committee the bill would drive business away from Texas. "Our customers," said one company man, "will not pay a premium for a 'made in Texas' label."

Others complained that H. B. 7 not only would tax the same group that have been hit before, but would hit some from several directions at once.

Governor Daniel's reply to those arguments is that business should bear a portion of the tax burden to keep from dumping it all "on the family budget", as in a general sales tax.

Hard Going

Governor Daniel's abandoned property bill, killed during the regular session, made it back to the House floor, but only after a committee had attached crippling amendments.

As introduced, the bill would have allowed the state to take over property or bank accounts unclaimed for seven years. Committee changed the waiting period to 15 years. This cut the estimated first-year take from $20,000,000 to $300,000.

This is one of the bills recommended by the governor to pay off the $65,000,000 deficit that accumulated during the 1958-59 biennium.

Thumbs Down On These

Governor Daniel vetoed nine of the some 500 bills passed during the regular session.

Among these was the "de novo" bill which would have provided for an entirely new trial when decisions of state agencies were appealed to the courts. Governor Daniel said it would have disrupted oil and gas conservation procedures of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Also turned down was a bill to create a Fort Bend County water district. Governor Daniel said it was in conflict with state-wide water planning. Rep. Jimmy Day of Brookshire, sponsor made a critical speech on the House floor, contending the governor had signed a bill just like that one two years ago.

Another vetoed bill would have provided for repayment to persons who have paid fines or served sentences for crimes of which they were not guilty. Governor said the intent was good, but with no limitations in the bill, the taxpayers had no protection.

One Solution

Many observers believe that much of the current legislative trouble—the slow start, delays, bickering between members and last-minute do or die legislation—would not happen if the office of Speaker of the House were an elective post.

Certainly this would eliminate the factions that exist in the Lower House.

Evidence of the desirability of such a plan is found in the office of the Lieutenant Governor, who performs identical functions in the Senate. Both officers have apartments in the Capitol Building, but only the Lieutenant Governor is elected by the people.

Selection of the House Speaker is made by the House members themselves. This delays the start of nearly every session. Furthermore, it provokes many bitter battles, divides the House and creates deep wounds that never heal. Also, much time is wasted during sessions by various groups campaigning for the Speakership for the session that still is two years away.

The real loser in the battle is the public and they have no choice, in the matter, as things stand now.

Demands for making the post an elective one would have to come from the people, as there is considerable feeling among public officials against the idea of elective offices.

Wharton County man, Ralph Gresham confessed to the robbery of the Thorndale State Bank.

The band parents sponsored a playground baseball league this summer.

City Marshall Gene Smith, received a $100 check from the United States for an arrest made in 1937.

James Fletscher was paid $2,000 when a suit he had filed against the Hartford Accident Indemnity Company was settled. He was injured in a beer truck accident near Burlington in October, 1938.

Notify Local Board Of Status Changes

AUSTIN—Selective Service officials are becoming increasingly concerned about the number of men of draft age who do not advise their local boards about changes in their status.

This was reported Friday by Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, who has recently returned from a conference of state and territorial Selective Service directors in Washington.

He says officials are worried because up-to-date and accurate information can be "very valuable if this country were to get into an emergency."

Men registered with draft boards are required by law to advise their boards about everything from a change of job to a change of address. The law gives them 10 days to get the information to their boards in writing.

The official regulation reads: "It shall be the duty of every classified registrant to keep his local board currently informed of his occupational, marital, family, dependency, and military status, of his physical condition, of his home address, and of his receipt of any professional degree in a medical, dental, or allied specialist category. Every classified registrant shall, within 10 days after it occurs, report to his local board in writing every change in such status and in his physical condition and home address and his receipt of any such professional degree."

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hawk and son spent Sunday with relatives at Bryan.

Farm Scene

Good Growing Outlook On Farm

By J. D. Moore

Favorable growing conditions further brightened the farm picture in Milam County. Due to delayed planting and some replanting, the cotton crops are free of weeds and grass and are making rapid growth.

Generally, the insect damage is light. Farmers are reporting success with their early season poisoning program. The cotton is at the early squaring stage which means white blooms will appear in 20 days. Bloom to open boll usually requires 50 to 65 days. Farmers are urged to be on the alert for the flea hoppers in their cotton. A thorough poison application the week of June 8-12 and another the following week should protect the cotton plants during the critical fruiting period. Mixtures containing one of the hydrocarbons (toxaphene, dieldrin, heptachlor, etc.), parathion and DDT at the rate of one quart per acre are giving good results.

Favorable moisture for cotton production has multiplied the weed and grass problem. Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist, suggests that cotton producers take a good look at practices which can cut the costly hand hoeing bill. He suggests rotary hoes, lateral oiling of grass and weeds in young cotton and spot spraying.

The rotary hoe has been and still is the key weed control practice. In 1958, 44,496 rotary hoes equipped tractors were operated in 157 counties, resulting in a savings of over $13 million. The pull-behind or broadcast types proved very popular and easy to operate at the required high speeds. Rotary hoeing alone, not in combination with sweep cultivation, permits fast coverage and getting into fields quicker after repeated rains, Elliott said.

If continued rains prevent getting into the field with the rotary hoe and cause heavy growth of annual grasses and weeds, lateral oiling or post emergence oiling with unfortified naphtha is an excellent way to get out of the grass for about $1.00 to $1.50 for the five gallons of oil needed per acre.

This practice was carried out in 47 counties in 1958.

The naphtha is applied with parallel action oiling shoes at 15 to 25 pounds pressure, with 2 fan-type, horizontal nozzles, staggered and placed 10 inches apart—one nozzle on each side of the row. Direct the spray pattern at the lower 1 to 1 and 1/2 inches of the cotton stem, blow the leaves, advises Elliott. Natural wax young cotton stalks shed the naphtha without injury to the cotton until bark roughens and cracks. Annual grasses up to 3 to 5 inches tall can be controlled, he said.

Locally, Buck and Clifford Angell are using these oiling shoes to a great advantage in their grassy cotton.

Spot-spraying established Johnsongrass is faster, easier and cheaper than hand hoeing and Johnsongrass can be eradicated in one year. Use the jet gun sprayer. Apply the oils in small amounts to the stem of the grass at the ground line. Kerosene fortified with C-56 1 gallon to 100 gallons oil, does an excellent job.

Wilburn Beckhusen is using this method to kill out spots of Johnsongrass in his fields.

Sodium dalapon in water is a systemic foliage spray and the leaves of the grass must be wet. Again the jet-gun sprayer is ideal equipment for the job. The Bulletin 902 SPOT SPRAYING JOHNSONGRASS is available at the county agents office.

Nozzle Type Spray Rig Best Inspect Control

Conventional low-galageage, boom-type nozzles that most farmers are now using will probably give better insect control and higher yield of seed cotton than the new types of wide-swath or boomless nozzles which will cover 6 or 12 rows per nozzle.

These findings come from experiments conducted in 1958 on the A&M Plantation near College Station. The tests were conducted by the Departments of Agricultural Engineering and Entomology to determine the effectiveness of spray nozzles. Two arrangements of boom-type nozzles producing a cone pattern and three boomless nozzles were used on irrigated cotton with an average height of 5.5 feet.

The same amount of active ingredient was applied at rates of 6 and 10 gallons of spray material per acre with the boomless nozzles and 6 gallons per acre with the conventional boom-type nozzles. The effectiveness of insect control was measured by yields and insect infestation records.

This information comes from a Progress Report released by the tion entitled, "Effect of Spray Nozzle Types on Cotton Insect Control".

Automatic Pilots For Farm Tractors Make Work Days Easier

COLLEGE STATION—Farmers who want to make their work easier should be interested in an automatic pilot that has been developed for farm tractors, said W. L. Ulich, extension agricultural engineer.

This new device is expected to increase the effectiveness of cultivation as a means of weed control, he stated. The steering control system enables operators to guide tractors more accurately, thereby making possible finer adjustment of cultivation machinery for control of weeds without damage to the crops.

The automatic pilot was designed and laboratory tested by a U. S. D. A. engineer, and is now being field tested. The main problem overcome in developing this device involved finding a way to sue fairly simple equipment low enough in cost to be a profitable investment for farmers seeking to do a better job of cultivation, said Ulich.

The automatic control is intended for use in conjunction with power steering hookups which are featured on many modern tractors. Lightweight feelers, capable of sensing the position of the crop row in relation to the tractors front tires, are used in the automatic pilot to close switches when the tractor moves too close or too far from the row.

The microswitches, in turn, open valves that permit hydraulic pressure to turn the front wheels into alignment with the row. A linkage system between the front wheels and the switches automatically straightens the front wheels as soon as the tractor returns to the correct position, he added.

Heavy Supply Expected Lower Prices For Broilers

Because of the expected continuation of the heavy supplies of broilers from major producing areas of the nation, prices for the remainder of 1959 will probably remain below those of the same months of last year, said Marshall Miller, associate extension poultry marketing specialist.

Texas broiler producers placed 2,023,000 broiler chicks during the week ending May 16. These a week earlier and were 30 per cent below the corresponding period in 1958, the specialist said. The U. S. broiler placements also showed a decreasing trend, but placements through the first four months of 1959 compared to 1958 showed a sizeable increase, said the specialist.

Total Texas placements have not followed the national trend during the first four months of 1959. Texas placements have been about the same as for the corresponding period of 1958. Therefore, little if any of the total national increase can be attributed to Texas placements, but Texas broiler prices have ranged well below the first four months of 1959 compared to 1958, said Miller.

Because of improved transportation facilities and other communications state lines mean very little in the marketing of agricultural products. Therefore, it is necessary for the independent broiler producer to stay abreast of this of 1958.

Prices received for Texas broilers are influenced more by the national situation than by either national trends as well as state trends in the broiler industry in order to do a better job of planning in production and marketing, said Miller.

The agricultural Marketing Service says that the placement of

Ammonia gave him quicker, healthier stand of Bermuda

Charles Cavanaugh, successful young Texas farmer, says: "I put 110 acres of my land in conservation reserve pasture. This was planted to Bermuda. We applied 42 pounds of Phillips 66 Ammonia pre-plant. The ammonia gave the Bermuda a quick, healthy start—helped control weeds by giving quicker cover. Now, with a carefully controlled fertilization program, I'm sure that at the end of the conservation reserve program, I'll have an excellent permanent pasture. This was so successful, I am going to use Phillips 66 Ammonia on other cash crops."

Other successful Texas farmers have discovered that they make more profit per acre, using Phillips 66 Ammonia. They get more cotton that classes higher at the gin . . . yields of sorghum grain or ensilage are increased . . . profits on wheat and small grains are boosted through higher grain yields and improved forage . . . more marketable vegetables are harvested.

Phillips 66 Ammonia can be easily applied by you or your distributor. See us today about Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia . . . it gives you more nitrogen per dollar than any other form of fertilizer—a full 82%.

WHY ACCEPT SUBSTITUTES?

For this large beautiful 29' x 75' home owned by Albert Hajovsky (606 E. 6th Street) The BRICK and LAYING of BRICK Cost LESS THAN $1,200.00. With lower maintenance costs you can see the savings of using real brick instead of a substitute which is far short of the value of brick. On some jobs done by out-of-town firms, the cost of substitutes were far more for material, far short of brick and your MONEY GOES OUT OF TOWN.
